Welcome to SYBIL HOUSE

If you're looking for a venue that's a little bit special, then Sybil House is the place for you.

Sybil House is a former marine engineering training facility in Milford Haven which had been vacant for several years and has been converted into a modern office space for the Port of Milford Haven, as well as an internal and external multi-functional space to hold conferences, meetings and events.

The building was renamed Sybil House, after the first vessel to enter Milford Docks when it opened in 1888, a nod to the dockyard's rich heritage.

Whether you are looking for a venue to cater for 150 delegates, smaller meeting rooms or one large space with the option to break out into further rooms, our flexible space can be designed to meet your needs.

Sybil House is part of Milford Waterfront, and the opportunities to add an element of leisure to your events are endless. From sessions on the water at Milford Beach Activity Centre or a game of bowling over the road at Phoenix Bowl, to learning about local history at Milford Haven Museum or viewing the work of some of the best Welsh artists and craft workers at the Waterfront Gallery. Plus, with the 100 bedroom, 4 star Tŷ Hotel located just across the water, your delegates have the option of overnight accommodation if required.

Our team is experienced, welcoming and on hand from initial enquiry through to delivery to make your event a success. The safety, comfort and wellbeing of your delegates is our number one priority, and you will have a dedicated point of contact who will work with you throughout.
